

The last of the Meg Whitman / Jerry Brown debates is happening tonight and promises to be a doozie (& not just because of the recent uproar over name-calling). By all accounts the election remains up in the air, with much at stake for environmental regulation in California (see here and here, e.g.). For post-debate analysis on environmental issues, blogger Sean Hecht will be commenting live tonight on KCRW's Which Way LA. Debate at 6:30pm, panel commentary immediately afterward. Audio available at 89.9 fm in Los Angeles, live program streaming here.