

WordPress recently added a feature that provides websites with country statistics about readers on a weekly or monthly basis. Not surprisingly, most of our readers are American, and it's almost equally unsurprising that Canada and the U.K. are next on the list. But somewhat more surprisingly, the fourth country is India, followed by Australia, Germany, and the Philippines. And even more surprising is that viewers from 98 countries read Legal Planet last week — including, to take a few examples, Mongolia, Peru, and the UAE. It's exciting to know that we're reaching such an international audience.

The overall numbers are also good. We've had 862,000 total web viewings, plus 800 people who follow us on a daily basis via email or twitter. We're very grateful to all of you for your interest in our work.