

Having just made my first trip to the Art Institute in Chicago, I was primed for this feature in Grist on the state of climate art. If one can judge a movement by its artists, it seems we still have a fair ways to go—though I like this Venus.

Also like this slideshow of climate activists around the world.