Following in Dan's footsteps as promoters of our respective schools' excellent environmental law journals, I'm proud to announce that the UCLA Journal of Environmental Law and Policy Volume 27, #1 was published this summer.

This journal issue features several interesting pieces. They include a thought-provoking Comment by second-year UCLA law student Jed Ela, Law and Norms in Collective Action: Maximizing Social Influence to Minimize Carbon Emissions, as well as the following Articles:

Strength in Numbers: Setting Quantitative Criteria for Listing Species Under the Endangered Species Act, Kalyani Robbins

Organophosphates, Friend and Foe: The Promise of Medical Monitoring for Farm Workers and Their Families, Adriane J. Busby and Gabriel Eckstein

Captain Planet Takes on Hazard Transfer: Combining the Forces of Market, Legal and Ethical Decisionmaking to Reduce Toxic Exports, Andrea Giampetro-Meyer
