Ecology Law Quarterly is always worth a read, even if the electronic version lacks the beautiful Ansel Adams cover pictures. The latest issue has just been posted. Here are links to the articles:

Michael Burger, Environmental Law/Environmental Literature

Bruce R. Huber, How Did RGGI Do It? Political Economy and Emissions Auctions

Tracey M. Roberts, The Rise of Rule Four Institutions: Voluntary Standards, Certification and Labeling Systems

And Ecology Law Currents has a new offering as well: R. Trent Taylor, The Obsolescence of Environmental Common Law.
