I've already posted a couple of times on BLM's proposal to revoke a rule that limits methane emissions (a major greenhouse gas) from oil and gas operations on federal lands. The period for public comment on BLM's proposal closes today. A group of environmental law professors just filed a comment noting major legal problems with the BLM proposal. You can review our comment here: BLM Waste Prevention Rule Comment final. We hope that BLM will reconsider its approach on the issue.