

The California Lawyers Association's Environmental Law Section is hosting a conference on Thursday, March 28th in Downtown Oakland entitled "SB 100 and the Race to a Carbon Free Grid in California." It will feature top officials from the Newsom Administration and other energy experts, including an "Energy 101" pre-panel for attorneys new to the field. The event is co-sponsored by Berkeley Law's Center for Law, Energy and the Environment (CLEE), UCLA School of Law's Emmett Institute on Climate Change & the Environment, and UC Davis School of Law.

As Legal Planet readers know, SB 100 (de León, 2018) requires California's grid to be powered 60% by eligible renewable resources by 2030 and carbon-free by 2045. Achieving these ambitious goals will require intensive implementation work by California's key environmental agencies, utilities, and grid operators, as well as significant stakeholder involvement.

To delve into these issues, the "SB 100" conference will feature top speakers, including:

- Jared Blumenfeld, Secretary, California Environmental Protection Agency
- Janea Scott, Vice Chair, California Energy Commission
- Alice Reynolds, Senior Advisor for Energy, Office of Governor Gavin Newsom
- Danny Kennedy, Managing Director, California Clean Energy Fund
- Nancy Sutley, Chief Sustainability and Economic Development Officer, Los Angeles Department of Water and Power

You can register on-line here and download the full agenda here [PDF]. The event will take place at the State Building in Downtown Oakland, conveniently located near BART. Discounted law student rates are available. Hope to see you there!
